Our Mission Statement:

To create a future for all individuals who struggle with dyslexia and other related reading differences so that they may have richer, more robust lives and access to the tools and resources they need.

The Problem:

One in 5 children struggle to read. Research shows the children need a specific type of instruction (Orton-Gillingham). Current teachers leave college without the training needed to help these students

Our Solution:

To combat this problem KSMO IDA created the Orton-Gillingham Scholarship program to provide the much needed training for teachers in Missouri and Kansas.

What Teachers Are Saying About Our Training:

"This course was invaluable to me as a classroom teacher. There is such a lack of training and instruction in this area. I have learned a method instrumental in teaching students...in the area of reading and decoding words..."

"Dyslexia is a puzzle to me, and as an educator I did not have the tools to give proper instruction... I believe this course was the very best teacher training session that I have ever experienced."
